A Letter from the DC Dental Society President Carol Blake, DDS

Dear Colleagues,

As I write this letter to you, it is hard to believe that a year has passed since I assumed this office. Much has happened in our Society since last June so I would like to use this letter to reflect on my year as your president, as well as to look forward to the future.

As President, my driving focus has been on leading initiatives that will further the strategic priorities laid out by the leadership in 2016. First, to focus on increasing membership value by providing programs, services, and opportunities that will enable them to succeed and excel throughout their careers. Secondly, to adopt technology solutions that improve member communications, networking and education, and to provide resources that enable members to utilize the latest technologies in dentistry and practice management. Finally, to achieve financial stability by defining the term for our Society, scrutinizing products, services and expenses, and developing and investing in new ideas to increase revenue.

Central to all of our strategic objectives is a focus on attracting new members to the Society and identifying new programs and services that will be valued by them. Though the number of practicing dentists in the District has been increasing over the last few years, DCDS membership has, at best, remained flat. This is not a trend unique to our Society, but it is one that we are committed to addressing and changing.

One step that we took towards this end was conducting one-on-one interviews last fall with new DCDS members as well as non-member dentists to find out more about their interests and expectations from the Society. These interviews have been a very important factor in the updates being made to our 2018-2019 CE Program. We have also been much more diligent in making non-members aware of DCDS events, including the networking happy hours, and hope to make them a regular occurrence moving forward.

I am also proud of the work that was accomplished to ensure the long-term financial health and viability of our Society. Last summer the board evaluated the Society's management model and partnership with SmithBucklin and reaffirmed the model was still the most optimal for the organization and worked with SmithBucklin to recalibrate our scope of services and lower fees for 2018. The board also approved a "breakeven" budget for 2018, as well as a new investment reserve policy which ensures the continued long-term growth of the reserves while at the same time providing annual income to support Society offerings. In addition, the policy sets a floor value for which the total reserves cannot fall below.

The 2017-2018 Monthly Meeting series was successful by several measures. Those of you who attended our meetings may have noticed that it was a bit harder to find a seat than in past years. No, we did not decrease the number of chairs. In fact, we actually had to increase them to account for the higher levels of attendance! In addition, we have been able to translate this increase in popularity into a boost to the Society's revenue in the form of sponsors and a higher number of non-member attendees. Finally, the Society was able to obtain a renewal of its ADA CERP certification for a full three years, which is the second-longest term that the ADA will grant. I would like to thank the Education Committee past-chair Dr. Adam Eskow as well as the rest of the committee for putting together such an engaging and fruitful CE program.

As much as I would like to use this space speaking only of our accomplishments, I would be remiss if I did not mention two disappointments that arose during my term as President. First, despite our best efforts, the new members that we attracted in the past year were not enough to offset the number of members who retired and left the Society. In fact, our year-over-year membership numbers in 2017 were slightly lower than 2016. However, I believe that the steps that we have taken in the past year will pay dividends in years to come in the form of higher membership numbers. These steps have included an emphasis on promoting DCDS events to member and non-member dentists, increased outreach to students at the Howard University College of Dentistry, and lowering the barriers to entry for new members by modifying our bylaws. We have already received a promising number of applications so far in 2018, and are working hard to ensure that this trend continues moving forward.

Another major disappointment for me was the absence of an annual meeting in 2018. After the Board decided not to proceed with a 2018 Mid-Atlantic Dental Meeting, I convened a small workgroup to explore the possibility of a one-day meeting in spring 2018. Though the group had some very exciting ideas, we decided that ultimately the meeting did not make sense for our Society this year.

I'm happy to announce that the DCDS will be holding a one-day annual meeting on Friday, March 29, 2019. This meeting will be focused on providing the opportunity for dentists, hygienists, and dental assistants to obtain all of the required CE courses for licensure in one day. We believe that this program will be a great benefit to our members.

I believe that the future of the DC Dental Society is very bright! It has been a great honor and pleasure to serve as your President, and I have enormous confidence in the abilities of incoming President Dr. Chris Loukaitis and our new leadership team to continue our good work in the next year.

Sincerely,

Dr. Carol Blake, DDS

Sterling V. Mead Award: Dr. Eugene Giannini

Dr. Giannini has been a DCDS member for nearly 30 years with a long list of contributions to the Society and community. He has held several leadership positions, including President in 2006-2007, served on the DCDS Foundation Board, and successfully led numerous advocacy initiatives on behalf of the Society over the past decade to oppose legislation/regulations that would have negatively impacted the practice of dentistry in the District. Dr. Giannini is a graduate of the Georgetown University School of Dentistry. He practices at Giannini and Gray Dental Partners in Northwest D.C. and resides with his family in D.C.'s Spring Valley neighborhood.

Committee Member of the Year Award: Dr. Ioana Bettios

As chair of the Membership Committee, Dr. Bettios has led several initiatives this past year aimed at reengaging current members and attracting new members to the Society. As a result of these activities, the Society has added nearly 50 new members to its rosters. Dr. Bettios is a professor and the current Chair of the Department of Prosthodontics at the Howard University College of Dentistry.

DCDS Foundation Community Spirit Award: Dr. Takeisha Presson

Dr. Presson is being recognized for her commitment to supporting the underserved in the District. She regularly holds service days at her Northeast clinic where she provides free dental services as well as warm meals and snack bags containing oral hygiene/education kits. She also is very active in her old neighborhood – Langston Terrace Public Housing Development – where she annually leads the Thanksgiving Food Basket giveaway that provides 150 needy families with Thanksgiving dinner, as well as coordinates the neighborhood's annual block party/health fair where she provides dental hygiene kits, dental/oral cancer screenings, and pro bono denture repair/inspections to seniors. Dr. Presson received her undergraduate degree from Ohio Wesleyan University, and returned to Washington DC to begin her career in the world of dentistry as an office manager at the same Northeast office where she had become interested in dentistry as a child. Dr. Presson attended dental school at the Howard University School of Dentistry, and went on to complete a residency at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, where she provided care to the inpatient and outpatient population of the DC Department of Mental Health. Today, Dr. Presson practices at Dimples Dental Suite in Northeast Washington, DC.

In September 2017, Dr. Zia traveled with a team of dentists to Syrian refugee camps in Jordan, where he treated patients, trained local dentists, and left behind dental equipment that he himself had purchased. Dr. Zia practices at Chevy Chase Endodontics, and lives with his wife and two sons in Washington, DC.

2018 Educational Needs Assessment Survey Results

As an ADA CERP Continuing Education Recognized Provider, the DC Dental Society is required to conduct a member educational needs assessment survey every year. The Education Committee uses the survey results and the monthly meeting evaluations to develop future education offerings.

This year, there was greater participation from younger dentists compared to last year (28% of survey respondents vs. 9% last year). Having a variety of dentists participate in the survey is very helpful, as needs change over the course of a dental career. The survey found:

- The topics of highest interest for dentists are: digital technology, failure case studies, implants, and current materials.
- The topics of least interest are: oral surgery coding, buying your first practice, and pediatric dentistry.
- Younger and mid-career dentists have a high interest in webinars.
- Younger and mid-career dentists attend the DCDS monthly meetings for the networking; senior dentists attend for the CE.
- The top reasons to get CE are to learn new techniques, enhance the practice for patients, licensure, and for younger dentists, networking.
- 58% of respondents attended over 25 hours of in-person CE within the past year.

Do you have ideas for topics? Contact Education Committee members, or suggest them on the monthly meeting evaluations, and we'll include your suggestion in the next survey!

Announcing the 2018-2019 CE Program

By Eugenia Prokopets, DDS, Education Committee Chair

The Education Committee has been hard at work developing the 2018-2019 CE program for next year. In order to do this, we take seriously the findings of the annual Educational Needs Assessment Survey and the topics that members suggest on the monthly meeting evaluations. We also take into consideration the DC Board of Dentistry licensing requirements.

Our promise to DCDS members is that if you come to most of the continuing education offered by the Society during a two-year licensing period, you will have most of your licensing requirements met. In addition, we strive to bring you exciting speakers with international and national reputations, who are on the cutting edge of the latest technologies and best practices in dentistry.

The continuing education program runs from September 2018 – May 2019. This year, we're implementing the following changes based on feedback from you.

- Moving the dinner hour up by an hour— no more distracting hunger pangs!
- Get more CE for your buck – monthly meeting presentation will now offer 2.5 CE instead of 2.0 CE.
- Webinar options – piloting lunchtime webinars on practice management topics during Spring 2019. Learn more about the business of dentistry right from your office!

Members have told us that the clinical topics they want the most are about digital technology, current materials, and implants. We will have all of those topics and more covered this next year and are currently in the process of finalizing the last speakers. Please save the dates on your calendar, and join us for another exciting year of DCDS continuing education.

This will only be granted to assistants who meet the following criteria:

- The supervisor is responsible for ensuring that the applicant has a current application pending before the Board.

Before You Sign that Employment Agreement— Read This

Finding a new job, especially a first job, can be a very exciting time. However, this excitement can sometimes lead people to accept a job without properly vetting the opportunity. Jeffrey Frum, senior associate general counsel for the ADA, recently spoke to dental students at the University of Illinois at Chicago about the key legal provisions in dental employments. The full video, along with the accompanying Guide handed out to attendees, are available to all ADA members here.

Dental Practice Success

The Spring issue of the American Dental Association's Dental Practice Success is now available! In this issue you will find:

- The effect of student debt on practice ownership
- Three important tasks to tackle when opening a practice
- Instagram tips for your practice
- "Spring cleaning" tips to prepare for retirement.

These items and much more can be found in the full issue here.

NIH Launches "All of Us" Research Program

The Washington Post (5/1, Bernstein) reports that last month, the National Institutes of Health launched a new research program designed to develop personalized methods of prevention, treatment and care. This effort, announced by then-President Barack Obama in 2015, is aiming to enroll and collect the genetic data of 1 million people into the program. The program will also seek to bring in more underrepresented groups to clinical research, whose subjects have long been mostly white and male. To read the full article about this new effort, click here.

DEA Warns Public of Extortion Scam

The Drug Enforcement Administration is warning the public about criminals posing as DEA Special Agents or other law enforcement personnel as part of an international extortion scheme. At least one DCDS member has already been targeted by this scheme, and we believe that others may be targeted in the future.

The criminals call the victims (who in most cases previously purchased drugs over the Internet or by telephone) and identify themselves as DEA agents or law enforcement officials from other agencies. The impersonators inform their victims that purchasing drugs over the internet or by telephone is illegal, and that enforcement action will be taken against them unless they pay a fine. In most cases, the impersonators instruct their victims to pay the "fine" via wire transfer to a designated location, usually overseas. If victims refuse to send money, the impersonators often threaten to arrest them or search their property.

The public should be aware that no DEA agent will ever contact members of the public by telephone to demand money or any other form of payment. If you have been contacted by someone in a manner similar to the scenario described above, please fill out this form.

Remembering Dr. Raymond Kielich

DCDS was recently informed of the passing of retired Life Member, Dr. Raymond Kielich in February. Born in Buffalo, NY, Dr. Kielich enrolled in dental school so that he could serve in the US Navy as a dentist during World War II. Following his service, Dr. Kielich opened a pediatric dentistry practice while serving as Director of Dental Surgery for Buffalo Children's Hospital. He then moved to Washington, DC where he became a member of the DCDS and served as Director of Dental Training at Children's Hospital National Medical Center. Always an inventor and advocate of innovative technology, Dr.

Kielich used parts from his wife's steam iron to invent one of the earliest water spray dental drills, which is now in the collection of the Smithsonian Institution. His full obituary may be found here. The DCDS mourns the passing of Dr. Kielich. and sends condolences to his friends and family.
